Worse, tuberculosis complicating the case.

From that date until Saturday night he lingered between life and death.

Physicians attribute the phenomenon to the wonderful hardihood of turtle eggs.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED AT A FIRE.

In a fire which destroyed the two-story frame dwelling and store of Hill & Schwing, in Ellen street, West Hoboken, early yesterday morning, four persons were killed before the firemen arrived.

The dead are the father and mother of a family which occupied the apartments above the store, and two of their children. Two other children were badly burned but their lives are despaired of. In the excitement attending the attempts at rescue, neither the police nor the firemen were able to learn the names of the victims.

The fire started in the basement of the building and spread with such amazing rapidity that the police were led to believe it had been of incendiary origin.

Studying Sociological Conditions.

Pittston, Pa., Aug. 3.--Theodore Roosevelt continued his study into sociological subjects today. With Rev. Father John J. Curran, pastor of the Holy Savior Church; John Mitchell, labor leader, and Lawrence Abbott, he made a fleeting investigation of the coal mines, the settlements and amusement places of Pittston, Kingston, Plymouth and Nanticoke, all mining villages within a stone throw of Wilkes-Barre.

When asked whether he intended to do overalls and go into the heart of the mines, he shook his head and snapped: "No, this is not a spectacular trip. I only want to have first hand knowledge of the actual living and social conditions of the miners."

"I have no intention of making a through study of the inside of a mine. The humane question appeals to me more than the technical side."

"With the aid of Father Curran, who you know took a prominent part during the anthracite strike of 1905 and who visited me at the White House to confer regarding peace negotiations during the strike, and John Mitchell, I expect to gain much valuable information during my tour."

As the Roosevelt automobile whirled through the streets on his return trip, an enthusiastic crowd greeted and followed him on the run to Public Square, where they held him up and forced from him a short speech.

Forty members of the clergy gathered at Father Curran's home at 2 o'clock, where they had luncheon with the color.

Roosevelt continued his research this afternoon and expects to reach New York tomorrow.
